UN Asked to Act On Germany

THE Foreign Minister's address will not satisfy everyone nor deceive very many, and may not add to the fervor of possible suitors. All that can be hoped for is that the general eligibility of Israel has not been impaired.

FOREIGN policy is no longer the simple thing it was before two World Wars shook the earth out of its accustomed course and distracted the nations with each other's problems as well as their own. The State of Israel was born into this distraction and became at one leap a nation, with the peculiar aggravations of its nationhood — of the fact that it is "an integral part" of the region around it and of its dependence on the generosity and goodwill of certain great powers. Israel, therefore, for all that it is hardly more spacious than a country track or more populous than a pilgrim's encampment, is compelled to elaborate for itself a world policy, the compulsion upon Israel and upon any other small state is as great as the compulsion upon the big powers who, however, alone decide the issue of war and peace. Recourse to neutrality will not do. In its place has come, on the one hand the satellite system, on the other the system of interlocking regional commitments and dependencies which promise both military security and economic aid; and thirdly, ambiguity, which is the true successor to neutrality. Ambiguity, one may judge from the Foreign Minister's address to the Knesset, is the main quality of Israel's foreign policy at this moment.

SIDE by side with the newspaper reports of Mr. Sharet's review of policy there is a brief account of Mr. Nehru's attitude to the world and his worries. Like Mr. Sharet, the Indian leader takes very seriously the prospect of war, and is ready to go anywhere, do anything, say anything, cooperate with anyone, with the object of preventing war. Like Mr. Sharet, again, he believes that personal liberty and national independence are precious and that it is every man's and every nation's bound duty to make them secure. He is willing to march with the Western democracies to that end. What he is not sure about is the accuracy of the Western compass, which he believes has misdirected the Atlantic Allies and their associates. It would probably be unfair to say that Mr. Sharet is not more sure of the compass than Mr. Nehru; but it might be unfair to say that he would like, to one more head given to the hesitations of India, and more head, indeed, to the hesitations of all nations that are not direct performers in the angry conflict of powers but may be drawn, like it or not, into the conflict's possible atomic end.

IT is perhaps natural that [powerful] and resourceful nations should calculate their chances in terms of armaments and manpower. It is perhaps natural that they should assume the capacity to defeat their rivals. It is just as natural, as Germany has shown, that great powers, accounting the risk, should decide that in any case they can survive the defeat. None of these calculations and assumptions are natural, or can be, to a state such as Israel. They are not even natural to an overcrowded sub-continent like India, to whom world war, at the best, would mean hopeless impoverishment, pestilence, civil bloodshed and possibly the collapse of organized government. What is natural is that such peoples, needing aims more urgently than arms, and warmly attached as they may be to this or that way of life, "should drag their feet." There is valid cause for their reluctance. Mr. Nehru has suggested that the West might give deeper study to that cause, in their own interests, as well as in the interests of the reluctant nations.

IN Mr. Sharet's speech on Sunday there was the hint of a like appeal. And in Mr. Truman's address tomorrow night may come some understanding not of these anxieties alone but also of the need to convince the anxious nations and their people that peace through strength is a genuine reality and not a perilous phrase.

Big 3 Ministers Meeting Today

PARIS, Monday. — The Big Three Foreign Ministers will meet here tomorrow morning, the French Foreign Office announced today. It will be their first joint meeting since the arrival of Mr. Dean Acheson and Mr. Anthony Eden.

Mr. Eden and Mr. Acheson met for more than two hours today, on leaving the U.S. Embassy, after the conference, Mr. Eden said: "We had a most useful preliminary survey over the whole agenda."

Meanwhile, on the eve of tomorrow's opening of the General Assembly, the Palestine Conciliation Commission met today to discuss whether to continue its efforts to settle Arab-Israeli problems. No decision was announced.

The commission was reported to be concerned with the slow response from the participating delegations, as no replies have been received as a late hour this afternoon. It is understood, however, that an Israel reply is now being drafted and will be delivered, possibly by tomorrow.

Mr. Arthur Lourie will lead the Israel delegation at tomorrow's session of the General Assembly. Mr. Moshe Sharet is not expected to reach here until late tomorrow night. It is expected he will stay until the end of December, when he will be replaced by Mr. Aba Eban. The latter is not attending the early sessions, as he said his presence in Washington is urgent at the present time. (Reuters, INA)

Egypt Terrorists 'Await Signal'

CAIRO, Monday. — Field Marshal Aziz El Masri Pasha, commander of the Egyptian "Liberation Battalions," said today that he was "awaiting government orders" to launch a liberation movement.

He stated that there were plenty of arms at his disposal and threatened the British that they would pay for "every drop of Egyptian blood they shed in the Canal Zone."

Today's Egyptian newspaper report that 12 lorries laden with food were commandeered by "Liberation men" in Sharkia province, adjoining the Canal Zone, and that "Liberation units" had sabotaged British camps near Ismailia. A British military spokesman denied any knowledge of this. In the same area terrorists later attempted to ambush a small British car.

"Al-Ahram," Cairo's leading daily, today quoted Ahmed Hussein, head of the Fascist Young Egypt Party, as saying that his anti-British units now numbered more than 100,000 men, including veterans of the war against Israel.

(ANA) reported from London that Egypt has sent a commission to Rome to purchase 100,000 rifles from Italy.

Meanwhile, it was reported that British troops were guarding vital points in the Canal Zone, where disturbing elements are known to be active underground, and that the British Mediterranean Fleet in Malta had received considerable reinforcements.

(The Egyptian Foreign Minister, Salah el-Din, said tonight in Paris that Egypt would continue to refuse to join SACME. The Arab League would have discussions on the subject. At present the Egyptian government did not intend to bring the dispute with Britain before the U.N.)

The Polish Minister in Cairo today called on the Acting Foreign Minister, Ibrahim Faraj el-Din, and afterwards told reporters that Poland sympathized with Egyptian aspirations.

Syrian Students Oppose SACME

DAMASCUS, Monday (AP). — Thousands of students, headed by Arab socialist leaders, demonstrated against Premier Hassan el Hakim outside the government house today.

They protested against the Premier's support, understood to be only personal, of the four-power plan for Middle East defence.

El Hakim's opinion clashes with that expressed by the Foreign Minister, El Atassi, in Parliament on October 23. The Premier was expected to face strong criticism in parliament tonight — an attack which might cause the government to resign.

The action split between pro-SACME Premier El Hakim and the Foreign Minister, who opposed it, was admitted last night by Paris El Khoury, head of the Syrian Delegation to the U.N. General Assembly.

Speaking prior to his departure for Paris to attend the opening of the General Assembly, El Khoury said Syria has not made any decision on the subject, but that Arab Foreign Ministers would discuss the situation in Paris.

The parliamentary Foreign Affairs Committee yesterday unanimously condemned the Premier's declaration.

AFTER MIDNIGHT

A Baghdad criminal court sentenced five Jews to death yesterday after they had been found guilty of organized bomb throwing against the U.S. Information Office and the Arab League Synagogue here.

Premier Nuri, in a written statement issued yesterday in Baghdad, said it is "quite clear" that the students' violence was "instigated" by the British and the American Consuls in Baghdad.

The court was "induced" by the British and the American Consuls in Baghdad to sentence the Jews to death.

Persia Resumes Production At Abadan Unit

TEHRAN, Monday (AP). — Persia announced today that, "with the help of God," it had begun temporary operation of a major unit of the Abadan refinery.

The official government announcement said Persian engineers and workers, without foreign help, last night started up "Apparatus No. 70," one of Abadan's major refining units. It said present plans call for operating the unit for only one month to refill the storage tanks for domestic consumption. It added that the unit, which has a yearly capacity of 3,000,000 tons, will produce petrol, kerosene, diesel fuel oil and asphalt.

This would mean that the Persians plan to refine some 250,000 tons if the unit is operated at full blast for a month. Jeeps with loudspeakers paraded through the streets here today, calling people to a meeting being held tomorrow by Seyyed Kashani, leader of the fanatical Moslem sect, Fadayian Islam, a member of which assassinated Premier Ali Razmara.

According to the announcement, the meeting has been called in support of the government and in support of "Our Egyptian brethren, who are heroically fighting the British."

The right-wing newspaper "Atish" (Fire) said today that, because of the "explosive situation" in Teheran, military forces which were sent during the oil crisis to the Abadan refinery had been called to the city to reinforce the garrison here.

The paper also said a "society for fighting Communism" has been formed here. It will try to rally all anti-Communist forces into a joint effort.

Eisenhower Denies U.S. Visit Political

WASHINGTON, Monday (UP). — General Eisenhower, who is here to discuss with President Truman the speeding up of the flow of U.S. arms to Western Europe, has been seeing military leaders at the Pentagon. He told reporters that his trip had no political implications.

Yesterday he conferred with his old friend Mr. Bernard Baruch, who earlier this year had complained that those who linked the General's name to political discussions at the present moment were doing him a disservice.

By-Pass Korea 11th Atomic Blast Set Off in U.S.

MUNRA, Monday (AP). — The U.N. today proposed passing the issue of the Korean fire buffer zone, until a Korean armistice is "ready for signing and then to base the zone on the battle line existing at that time."

The U.N. suggested that a permanent committee meanwhile study this question which has been a stumbling block in the negotiations.

Trust delegates would then proceed to other points that must be settled before the fighting can end.

Maj. Gen. Henry Hodges read this four-point proposal in the afternoon session of the sub-committee:

- That both sides accept the principle that any cease-fire zone be based on the battle line at the time of the armistice signing with "appropriate adjustments."
- That the zone be four kms wide.
- That a committee of three officers from each side determine where the line of contact is, and advise the full delegations at any time.
- That the sub-committee now meeting report their agreement to the full delegations from both sides "with the recommendation that the latter proceed with the discussion of other items on the agenda."

TUNIS, Monday, (UP). — The Tunisian nationalist "Committee of Action to Safeguard Constitutional Freedom and Popular Representation" yesterday warned that it would use "all available means of protest" if the demands for the far-going reforms of the present regime are not met by Paris.

The Committee, which represents all the nationalist parties in Tunisia, was reported to have threatened that it would fight against any French reforms which would not grant an all-Tunisian assembly and government.

Tunisian Leaders Threaten French

The Minister of Commerce, Dr. Dov Joseph, and the Minister of Agriculture, Mr. Levi Eshkol, yesterday reported to the Knesset Economic Committee on the food supply situation and the expansion of agricultural production.

In reply to questions by Committee members, Dr. Joseph touched on the anti-profiteering campaign and the assurance of rationed supplies, and Mr. Eshkol on price policy.

Mr. Mordecai Bentov (Mapam) is the Committee chairman.

The distribution of rationed food items which Dr. Joseph said would begin on November 10, has started all over the country.

Shops are reported to be comparatively well-stocked, with additional supplies from wholesalers and factories still coming in. According to Dr. Joseph, about 35 per cent of urban consumers have already bought their rations.

Dr. Joseph, Mr. Zvi Leshman, who has been appointed to the Ministry of the Commerce Ministry's Control Department, and Mr. Yehoshua Salari, Police Inspector-General, discussed control problems at the Ministry yesterday.

Their continuation, when furnished, will be forwarded to the Ministerial Committee on Supply.

Fresh Disturbances Planned in Morocco

RABAT, MOROCCO Monday (Reuters). — Moroccan nationalist plan fresh disturbances tomorrow when the U.N. General Assembly meets in Paris. General Guillaume, French Resident-General in Morocco, said here last night.

"All necessary measures will be taken to thwart these plans," he added.

Knesset Approves Government Foreign Policy by 60-36 Vote

West Sees Israel Reservations Likely

By Our Political Correspondent

TEL AVIV, Monday. — In Western diplomatic circles here Mr. Sharet's address to the Knesset would appear to have provided some satisfaction and a certain amount of confusion. It is felt that the Foreign Minister, whilst expressing admirably the common interests of Israel and the West, as well as Israel's peculiar ties with the West, left it to be inferred that there might be important reservations, the outcome of which could be this country's aloofness from formal responsibilities.

It is recognized in these quarters that Mr. Sharet was well within his rights in refusing to state, in advance, what would be Israel's response to an invitation to join SACME. At the same time, the manner of his refusal, and the pointed references to the Jewish communities behind the "Iron Curtain," are taken as some indication of the line of argument which the Government would follow in the event of the receipt of an invitation to take part in the regional command.

It is admitted in these circles that no immediate approach to Israel is likely in any case; and there is agreement with Mr. Sharet's statement that SACME has not yet advanced beyond the proposal stage. It can be gathered, however, that important decisions which may swiftly transform the proposals into a working organization, will be taken at Rome this month.

The suggestion has also been heard that Mr. Sharet's speech, and the assumption that Israel will prefer not to take a formal part in SACME — whilst taking part in it — whilst taking part in it, and perhaps cooperative powers to support the Jewish communities behind the "Iron Curtain," are taken as some indication of the line of argument which the Government would follow in the event of the receipt of an invitation to take part in the regional command.

It is admitted in these circles that no immediate approach to Israel is likely in any case; and there is agreement with Mr. Sharet's statement that SACME has not yet advanced beyond the proposal stage. ## No Complete Identification B.G. Left's No Confidence Defeated 16-63

By Moshe Brilliant, Post Parliamentary Correspondent

Prime Minister David Ben Gurion last night justified the move toward the West in Israel's orientation when he explained in detail why closer association with the U.S. was imperative. He stressed in his one-hour reply to the Knesset foreign policy debate, that there could be no complete identification with the U.S.

Mr. Ben Gurion dealt only briefly with the Western powers' regional defence plans. Although he made no definite statement on Israel's attitude to the proposed Middle East Command, he made two pertinent observations:

1. He said: "The State of Israel is not for sale and not for rent. Even the U.S. does not have enough to buy it. Any country that fails to see as they are accustomed to dealing with a puppet government will not see an advance on our part."

2. He said Israel was ready for peace and cooperation with the neighbouring Arab states, but expressed the view that such cooperation would be possible only after the State of Israel is consolidated politically and economically and following the liberalization and democratization of the Arab States.

The Prime Minister expressed deep concern about the Anglo-American approach to Egypt to become a founder member in the proposed Command. He recalled that Egypt had not taken up arms in either of the World Wars and had not even fought to save itself from Rome in the last war. It was difficult, he said, to believe that the Egyptians would now fight for peace and democracy. "If they use the arms, they will use them only against Israel," he said.

Discussing the question of Israel's foreign relations, Mr. Ben Gurion divided the nations of the world into three categories:

- those which had no relations with Israel, such as the Arab States, Pakistan, Ethiopia and Afghanistan;
- those which maintained relations only on the Government level, such as the U.S.S.R. and China;
- those with which relations existed both on the Government level and between the Jewish people, such as the Western Democracies.

The gap between the second and third categories was no narrower than the gap between the first and second, he said. To fulfill its mission of assuring security and immigration, Israel could not exist in isolation.

Knesset Elects Progressives Press Deputy Speakers Nationality Bill

Mr. Zeev Shefer (Mapai) and Mr. Benjamin Mintz (Poale Agudat Israel) were elected Deputy Knesset Speakers yesterday. This election enlarges the Knesset Presidium to five members.

The Mapai nominee was elected by 58 votes to seven and Mr. Mintz by 53 to 24.

Herut and the Progressives voted against both candidates, because they opposed the principle of electing Presidium members on a party basis. The General Zionists abstained in the vote on Mr. Shefer and voted against Mr. Mintz, while Mapam supported the Mapai candidate and abstained in the vote on Mr. Mintz.

Both of these parties were motivated by the argument that the strength of parties and not political agreements should be the basis for election. Mr. Mintz's party has only two seats in the House.

Mr. Meir Argov (Mapai) chairman of the Steering Committee explained that his party should have second seat in consideration of its size. Mapai's Hamizrachi had been entitled to a seat as the fourth largest party in the House, but had voted in favour of Poale Agudat Israel.

The Knesset Legislation Committee yesterday elected Dr. Zerah Warhaftig (Mapai Hamizrachi) as its chairman, and the House Committee, Mr. David Bar-Ray-Hal (Mapai).

The House Committee discussed the principle of whether Dr. Warhaftig could simultaneously serve as chairman of a Knesset Committee and be a Deputy Minister. He has been designated as Deputy Minister for Religious Affairs. The decision was put off until next week.

Reports Given By Joseph, Eshkol

MUNICH, Monday (INA). — An open conflict with the Nazis is unavoidable, Kurt Schumacher, Chairman of the Social Democratic Party, said at Hof, addressing a weekend meeting. He added that the battle with neo-fascist groups must be fought by the people itself, because the police force, although necessary, was insufficient. The only language the fascists understood was force. The conference decided to protest against the government's proposed cessation of all denazification procedures. ## Fewer Current Cuts Butler's Coming Address May Shatter Many Tory Hopes

Jerusalem Post Correspondent
LONDON, Monday. — Mr. Butler is now expected to make his statement on Wednesday, and it is widely forecast that its contents will come as a shock to the public, including those Conservative voters who confidently expect the new Government to bring prices down, import more food and build more houses.

Instead of these pleasant dreams, they are likely to be faced with a grim austerity regime. Mr. Butler has been successful in winning the inclusion in the Cabinet of Sir John Anderson as a kind of economic dictator, and by the same token there will be no discounting of the Welfare State. But drastic import cuts are in the making, and they will fall heavily on all plans for the investment of social capital, such as housing.

Special U.S. assistance is believed to have been promised by Mr. Harriman in such matters as steel shipments, machine-tool supplies and, perhaps, free allocations of oil for defence purposes — but these steps, while aiding the defence programme, will not ease the government's immediate task of stopping the drain of gold and the flight from sterling which is once more undermining confidence in the pound.

Unpleasant Week
The expected shock treatment is likely to include an immediate increase in the bank rate from the present two per cent to three or perhaps four, and the City is bracing itself for an end to the long period of cheap money.

The first week of Conservative rule has been a thoroughly unpleasant one for the stock market. Selling by nervous speculators and investors has been heavy and has led to severe and widespread falls in the prices of government securities, industrial equities and commodity shares. What ever the precise form of the government's disinflationary programme, it is bound to make investment in the civilian sector difficult while maintaining the highest possible rate of defence and export production.

All other industries must expect cuts in materials and manpower. One means to achieve this end is a higher interest rate. It is intended to make money scarce, even if some of the weaker firms go to the wall.

All reports agree that Mr. Butler is being urged by his treasury experts to be ruthless in ending the inflation while leaving the structure of the Welfare State intact. He will have to battle some of his Cabinet colleagues, who are anxious for popularity with investors and consumers, but it is generally agreed that unless the Conservative government can produce a genuine shock treatment during its first six months of office, the opportunity will slip and the downhill slide will continue.

Cloudburst Over Hadera

HADERA, Monday. — Considerable damage to crops and other property was reported after a cloudburst flooded the low-lying areas of the town and the nearby waters this afternoon. About 65 millimetres fell in the course of an hour.

A waterspout, rising 15 to 20 metres into the low-lying clouds, was sighted off the Nathanya beach at noon. It disappeared in five minutes and was followed by heavy rains over Nathanya. The last waterspout reported in this area was seen off Haifa in 1938. Light rains also hit the Tel Aviv area at noon.

Children at the Agropark school, which was seriously damaged by the rain, were evacuated to private homes and public buildings in the town. Immediately after the rain stopped, new tents were brought from the Jewish Agency stores and erected in place of those which had collapsed.

The Hadera Local Council voted this evening to lease 120 decares in the industrial zone to a company which is to begin construction of a large paper plant shortly. The factory will be set up by a group of U.S. foresters in conjunction with the local Yehuda community.

The Council also decided to widen the main road and pave all other roads in the township.

ADULT EDUCATION SEMINAR OPENED
"It should be your task, as teachers of adult new immigrants, to help fight feelings of bitterness and dissatisfaction which have become so prevalent lately, by inspiring your pupils with the everlasting values of our people and the ideals from which this State was born."

This was said by Prof. S. H. Bergmann to the 60 students of the third annual course at the Hebrew University-Government Adult Education Seminar which opened yesterday afternoon in Jerusalem.

The number of students this year is almost double the enrollment of the past two semesters. More than 60 per cent of them are recent immigrants.

Prof. D. Z. Dinaburg, the Minister of Education, and Prof. M. Schwabe, the Rector of the Hebrew University, also addressed the group.

Held for Participating in Demonstration
TEL AVIV, Monday (ITIM). — Ya'acov Silber, of the editorial staff of "Kol Ha'am," the Communist daily, and three others were arrested this morning and charged with participation in a Communist demonstration held without a permit on Saturday night. The other three are Yehuda Slav, the paper's former editor, David Rabinovitch and Eliezer Feller. The Magistrate's Court released them on IL50 bail each.

It is learned that police intend to arrest others who took part in the demonstration. The accused were also charged with refusing to be fingerprinted. They maintained their stand despite the Magistrate's warning that they could be imprisoned if they continued to refuse.

Ramat Gan Mayor Appeals to Gov't
RAMAT GAN, Monday. — An appeal to the Government to provide building materials for the construction of new schools and for additional areas of land for the expansion of the township was voiced here today by Mr. A. Krimitz, Mayor of Ramat Gan.

Speaking to the press, Mr. Krimitz said that there were 40 classes meeting in the afternoon owing to the shortage of accommodation.

The lack of room for the expansion of the township, Krimitz said, delayed the absorption of 1,000 persons a month, mainly new immigrants who were coming to live in Ramat Gan, and had led to a number of firms including Palumbo, Argaman and Mishi Sacks, leaving the area when they had to expand their premises.

Immigrant Selection Policy Next Year

By Robert Gary
The Jewish Agency Executive has decided that the 1952 immigration will be on a selective basis. It was learned in Jerusalem last night.

Although no quotas have been set because of difficulties in determining how many persons will be permitted to leave Rumania and certain other countries, it is estimated that next year's immigration will total about 120,000.

The selection will be done mainly on the basis of the applicants' present or potential productive capacity, a procedure that will give priority to the young and the able-bodied. Most of the youths — about 50,000 — are expected to come from North Africa, where transfer centres will be established to provide medical treatment and to teach the emigrants some basic Hebrew.

The use of selective standards will preclude the liquidation of entire communities, such as those in Persia and Morocco, although the few thousand Jews still remaining in Tripoli will probably be removed on a case-by-case basis.

It was stated at a recent Executive meeting that the 1951 immigration will be about 120,000. The majority will have come from the Middle East, and about 30,000 from Rumania.

An official announcement on yesterday's session of the Executive, at which Mr. Berl Locker presided, will study various proposals on immigration problems.

18 Cars in One Shift
HAIFA, Monday. — Eighteen cars are now being assembled in one shift at the Kaiser-Frazer plant here compared to only two when production started five months ago. The maximum single shift capacity is 20.

The firm's American representatives are reported to be impressed with the speed with which the workers have learned the assembly-line technique and with the quality of their work.

A total of 150 "Henry J" models are scheduled to leave for Finland, Norway and France during the week.

Twenty Chausson buses of both the urban and the larger inter-urban models are due in five shifts during the first half of this month. They are to be fitted for service on the assembly lines at the Haifa plant in Tel Aviv.

IL1,000 Libel Suit Against "Hador"
TEL AVIV, Monday (ITIM). — A libel suit for IL1,000 has been filed against "Hador," the Mafal afternoon newspaper, in the District Court here by Mr. Michael Heilenberg, Deputy Chairman of the Kfar Saba Local Council and Secretary of the village's Mafal branch.

The plaintiff alleges that "Hador" printed an article on July 13 accusing Mafal of artificially creating a bread shortage in Kfar Saba which led to a demonstration by nearby Arab residents outside the Mafal clubhouse where an election rally was taking place.

Judge Criticizes D.A.'s Office
TEL AVIV, Monday (ITIM). — District Court Judge Zvi Bakker sharply criticized the District Attorney's office today when he freed a driver who had been charged with failing to take out third party insurance on his vehicle.

The driver was employed by the Municipality, and according to instructions from the Minister of Finance, the insurance regulations do not apply to the Tel Aviv Municipality. The District Attorney should have been aware of this, Judge Bakker held.
